ANNUAL LADIES' NIGHT ENJOYED BY LIONS

By FRANCES FOSTER

Amid appropriate Hallowe'en settings, the fourteenth annual ladies 'night party was held in the parlors of the First Methodist church Tuesday night at which members of the Lions club were hosts.

This was indeed a gala event. The banquet hall was "all dressed up" as a Hallowe'en carnival, with orange and black streamers, jack o'lanterns, black cats and other decorations very artistically arranged. Long tables were arranged for the feast of the evening, carrying out the chosen decorations, with small pot plants adding to the attractiveness of the tables. Favors of whistles, balloons and serpintine were found at each plate, which added further to the evening's merriment. Each lady was presented with a dainty manicure set as a souvenir. The floral decorations were the courtesy of Chatman's nursery.

New Lion Introduced.

President C. H. Ray presided over the evening's fun, introducing G. G. McAlexander as a new Lion. He then called on Lion N C. Smart who introduced the special guests of the evening.

Delightful Menu.

The program opened with all singing "America." Dr. Minor Bounds gave the invocation. A tempting banquet was served by the social workers, Mrs. Weedin Franklin, chairman, the menu consisting of fruit cocktail, Virginia baked ham, potato au gratin, deviled eggs, peas and carrots in timbles, homemade pickles, hot rolls, coffee lettuce salad, paprika crackers date pudding. Cigars and cigarettes were passed to the men Miss Kitty Beth Edwards, talented pianist of the city, gave several popular selections during the dinner hour.

Leo Spillman, Master of Ceremonies.

Mrs. Joe Largent, "sweetheart" of the club, and Lion Byron England, led the guests in singing "I'd Rather Belong to the Lions," after which Lion Ray presented Lion Leo Spillman, past president of the club, as master of ceremonies. Mr. Spillman came up to every expectation, with his clever remarks, and introduced the remainder of the evening's program. He called on Hon. W. P. Abernathy, popular young McKinney lawyer, who is active in many civic organizations of the city who gave the following beautiful toast to the ladies:

Toast to Ladies.

"In your imagination picture the women of all generations gathered together in one group —nearby are all the men. On the faces of the men can be seen a look of contentment as they watch the other gathering. They are secure in a feeling of superiority and it is with some amusement that they casually gaze upon their neighbors. The occasion is the result of the continued careless disregard on the part of man of the importance of woman. Woman has resolved that she will receive due recognition.

"The women are conferring quietly with one another. Procedure is outlined. The watchword is: We must not let man forget that he is master lest he forget that we are mistress.

"One woman steps forward. You may see that she is beautiful. All the lovely features and characteristics of all the women are exemplified in this one. She represents a quality which no man can ever claim. Her loveliness is wonderous to behold. She speaks: 'Down through all the ages since the time when the only recognition given woman was as a Goddess in mythology, the world has pointed out its great men and their accomplishments—and has at the same time for the most part neglected woman and her deeds. Let me remind you what woman has done. We sent out Ruth and Naomi to exemplify devotion we can bear one to the other. Their story lingers yet in the hearts of all. Cleopatra was commissioned by us to show the world that the mightiest man can not withstand the charms of a woman fired with a desire to rule her people justly and wisely. Joan of Arc stood before you to lead a downtrodden people out of despondency to victory. Queen Elizabeth, good Queen Bess, was called upon by us to remove traditional burdens from the common people and free them from fetters forged by man. Marie Thresa showed you that even the responsibilities of a great empire need not prevent the children of the monarch from being reared with all the kindly attention a parent can give. You talk of Napoleon—from the time he cast Josephine aside his star continued to fall. Where is the man whose patience and faithfulness surpasses that of Marie Antoinette during the early years of her married life. What king has ruled his people more wisely than Queen Victoria. From our ranks came the angel of mercy—Florence Nightengale. We gave you Louisa M. Alcott to write her name in your hearts as well as ours with her stories. The golden voice of Mary Garden was a tribute to all that is beautiful. Did Lindbergh write history in the sky—didn't Amelia Erheart underscore his words and punctuate his sentences? Have you a man among you whose patient perserverance in the face of adversity can compare with that of Helen Keller?'

"As she finished speaking a great hush fell upon both crowds. Slowly, one by one, the men realized the great truth in her words. With a great shout they, as with one accord, rose to their feet to drink a toast to woman. And even as they, let us now drink our toast to woman"

Radio Artists Present.

The master of ceremonies next presented Misses Phyllis Young and Inez Lackey, poular radio artists with Station WRR, Dallas, who gave a number of popular tunes. Miss Lackey is a McKinney reared girl, but for the past few years has been staff pianist for Station WRR. Miss Young also appears daily over that station. Their songs brought forth hearty applause.

Pat Gordon and Miss Felicia Newlin, also artists over this same broadcasting station, were introduced and delighted the guests with their comedy skit, which they concluded by giving several cartoon drawings on a blackboard. Their program also elicited hearty applause. Dale Drake, continuity man for Station WRR, accompanied the guest artists to McKinney on this very enjoyable occasion.

As an appropriate conclusion to an evening of mirth, the Lions joined in singing "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" with Lion England leading.

Fourteenth Annual Party.

This fourteenth annual party for the Lions and Lionesses can truly be said to be the most enjoyable. Lions Newton J. Burkett, Byron England, P. D. Robason, Jack Warden and Walter A Davis were the program committee while Lions H. W. Henley, Monroe Alderson, Joe H. Wilson and W. W. Hall were the decorating committee.

Officers of the club are C. H. Ray, president; O. J. Moss, first vice-president; Elton Riggs, second vice-president; Dr. Minor Bounds, tail twister; N. C. Smart, Lion tamer; Chas. W. Graves, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. J. E. Largent, club sweetheart. Directors are: H. L. Sheap, Byron England, J. E. Largent, W. A. Davis.

C. C. CARRUTH OF WESTON HAS MADE SUCCESS

Perambulating over the county with Frank Blackwell, Manager of the McKinney Realty company, this editor spent a few minutes at the home of C. C. (Collie) Carrouth, who lives two miles northeast from Weston. Mr. Carrouth was born and reared in the community, where he has resided for sixty-five years. He owns one of the best farms in Collin county, containing 231 acres. He has one of the best farm homes, containing seven rooms and bath, being lighted by electricity, to (say nothing about his large barns, graneries, sheds, etc.

His place is kept as clean as a pin. Mr. Carrouth married Miss Helms, many years ago, who also was born and reared in that community. They have reared a nice family, all their children being grown. He is an outstanding citizen, long recognized as being one of the best men in the county. Fortunate is Collin county in having such fine citizens as Mr. and Mrs. Carrouth and their family.

Remembering most vividly defeats on the gridiron of the past three years, and considered out of the district race by hairline losses in two district games, the McKinney High Lions, thirty-seven strong are going through workouts this week under the watchful eyes of Coaches Noble J. Atkins and W. R. Hollis.

Celina, Northwest Collin, was represented at the county capital Tuesday by Charley Nelson, the cafe man; Capt. J. W. Weaver and R. M. Marsh. The last named gentleman and his good wife lived in McKinney for a couple of years during which time he owned and conducted the North Side Barber shop. For the last twelve years, he has been making his home at Celina.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Pope, son of Mrs. H. C. Pope, left McKinney Wednesday morning for San Antonio, where they plan to open a store.

WESTON PEOPLE GUESTS OF OLD WESTON FRIENDS

Zeb Taylor and wife of Chambersville and H. R. (Geewhillikins) Childress and wife of near Weston drove up to Bells, Saturday, October 27, and had a very pleasant Saturday night and Sunday at the home of their former neighbors and intimate friends, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Baker, who live on their farm four and a half miles north of Bells in sight of Red river and getting their mail on Route 1, Bells.

The Bakers, their children and grandchildren gathered at the Baker home Sunday where an oldtime family reunion of these Collinites and former Collinites was held during the day.

At the noon hour, a bountiful feast such as only Mrs. Baker and her daughters and granddaughters can prepare was enjoyed. A jolly time was had among these friends in a social way and in reminiscences of the younger days of the host and hostess and their visiting guests in the vicinity of Weston.

The Childress and the Baker families were the best of neighbors and friends. Mrs. Baker was formerly Miss Jessie Drake, while Mrs. Childress was formerly Miss Callie Broyles. Hence, the occasion was one of rare enjoyment to these former near neighbors and friends of the Weston section of our county.

During the day, Mr. Baker regaled his guests and other visitors by some enjoyable violin music that he executed on an old fiddle that he has owned for forty-three years. This fiddle, itself, has a unique history. It was one time lost and then found in the mud at the bottom of a river and is reputed to have been the property at one time of the famous Benjamin Franklin, who was an expert with the fiddle and the bow. Some of the party visited the Red river in the afternoon and enjoyed boat riding.

Among those present besides the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. Childress, were: Mr. and Mrs. S. S Baker, Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Reed, and their children, Grady, Mary, Jessie and Della Marie Reed; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bell and children, E. T., Opal and Arthur Lee Jr.; Mr. and Mrs R. A. Baker and children, Dorine and Robert Harold.

Steve Shipman Sells Fine Farm To Prof. L. L. Fritz

S. H. Shipman dropped in to see us from his good farm, just east of Princeton. When we say a good one, we mean it. None better in the county. The farm is just like its owner, a real 100-per center. Steve Shipman has just sold a nice 47-acre farm, east of Princeton, on the main pike to Prof. L. L. Fritz of Chickasha, Oklahoma.

Prof. Fritz was reared by Mr. and Mrs. Shipman, he having made his home with them from seventeen years old until he went through college. They helped to educate him. The Shipman's have no children, but have always thought as much of Prof. Fritz as their own. He has been properly reared by Mr. and Mrs. Shipman. Prof. Fritz owns two good houses and lots in McKinney. Naturally, having been reared here he feels kindly towards our city and county. Now with this good Collin county farm to our city property, we heartily congratulate him.

A happy family gathering was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Giddings at Allen where the following were guests: Mrs. C. M. Christie, Mrs. W. S. Elkin, Midland, Texas; Chas. M. Christie and family, Abilene; Chas. K. Peters Jr., Paris; A. C. Christie, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Massie, Mr. and Mrs. James Sutherland and little son, Charles Kenneth of Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Cook, Christene and Frances of McKinney; Mr. and Mrs. Winifred Wood, Allen; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Robbins and grandson of Plano; Mrs. Al Rothmyre and granddaughter, Carolina, of Denison.

Mrs. Jim Knox of Anna entertained Monday at her home with a shower and party complimenting Mrs. Bubard Hollans, who before her marriage was Miss Lenney Stice of that community. A refreshment course was presented to the following guests: Mrs. Ona Rollins, Mrs. Bob Rollins, Mrs. Grady Rollins, Mrs. Ed Flannery, Mrs. Perry Flannery, Mrs. Dow Rattan, Miss Sue Evelyn Rattan, Mrs. Eli Rollins, Miss Louise Rollins, and Mrs. A. Melton, all of Anna; Mrs. Elsie Ellis, Melissa, and Mrs. Clara Hollans, Weston.

MRS. W. MARSHALL CRAIG OF DALLAS DESCRIBES RECENT VISIT TO HOLY LAND AT BAPTIST WOMEN'S FEDERATION MEET

The Baptist Women's Federation held their regular meeting Monday afternoon in the First Baptist church, opening by singing "Rescue the Perishing" led by the musical director, Mrs. Weldon Wheatley. Mrs. F. E. Wilcox gave the opening prayer. The subject of the devotional was "Living the Surrendered Life," led by Mrs. H. C. Pope.

Mrs. T. H. Bryant and Miss Frankie Oates gave a duet with Mrs. Paul Wilson accompanying at the piano.

Mrs. John Green, in a gracious manner, introduced the guest speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. W. Marshall Craig, wife of Dr Marshall Craig, pastor of the Gaston Avenue church of Dallas. Mrs. Craig held the attention of her audience, as she retraced her trip to the Holy Land and other mission fields in Europe recently. She also gave glimpses on the Baptist World alliance held in Berlin, Germany. She is an interesting speaker and her talk at this time was greatly enjoyed by the McKinney ladies, eighty-eight being present.

Rev. G. O. Key, pastor of the King Memorial church, dismissed the meeting with prayer.

The meeting adjourned to meet with the King Memorial church the fifth Monday in 1935.

The social hour was delightful an amusing stunt trip being directed by Miss Oates with several of the ladies of the First church assisting. A delicious refreshment plate was passed.

IMPROVEMENTS AT MARIGOLD BEAUTY SHOP

The Marigold Beauty shop is undergoing extensive improvements, much new equipment added, the building remodeled, and new booths built. Mrs. Eugene McKinney, Mrs. Ceman Mitchell and Mrs. Cliff Grisham are proprietors of the Marigold shop, which is one of the most popular in the city. These ladies are ever on the alert in keeping their shop modern in every respect, and the improvements now being made will make it very attractive and convenient for their patrons.

Mesdames McKinney, Mitchell and Grisham, who are courteous and painstaking in their duties, are frequent users of the advertising columns of the Daily Courier-Gazette and the Weekly Democrat-Gazette, calling attention to specials which they have to offer in the way of beauty work.

Fire, which originated about 3:20 o'clock Tuesday afternoon did considerable damage to the home and contents of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Morgan, corner of Christian and Chestnut streets, this city. The blaze is believed to have originated in a small, upstairs room, the cause being undetermined. The home, a two-story structure, as well as some of the household effects, was damaged by the flames. McKinney volunteer firemen quickly extinguished the flames after their arrival. The home and contents were partially covered by insurance.

Dallas, ever with her fighting clothes on, voted five to one for the $3,000,000 Centenial bonds Tuesday. Glad of it. Now, if Dallas will knock out booze and beer on November 6, by the same majority, what a Centennial Texas will have during 1936. Booze and beer destroys.

John Umphress, Harry Umphress and Gerald Umphress of Desert were Tuesday business visitors in this city.

McKinney friends were much interested in Dr. Claude M. Simpson's record as presiding elder of the Paris district during the past year. He made a good report to annual conference last week, held in the First Methodist church at Dallas. At the close of the conference, Bishop A. Frank Smith announced his return to the Paris district as presiding elder for another year. Dr. Simpson and his cultured wife and two young daughters, Misses Mary Elizabeth and Helen, made a host of friends in McKinney during their two years' residence here when the Doctor was pastor of the local First church.

Glen Nelson, son of Mrs. J. Webb, suffered painful though not serious burns to his right arm and hand Tuesday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock at the J. P. Dowell store. Glen, who is associated with that big store, was cleaning an oil burner stove with gasoline, when it became ignited, severely burning him. There was no fire around where Glen was working; hence, he has no idea how the gasoline became ignited. However he had presence of mind enough to pull off his overalls and wrap them around his arm. He then threw the pan of gasoline out the door, grabbed the fire extinguisher and put out the flames which were beginning to spread. He is being commended by his co-workers for his quickness in extinguishing the fire, which might have caused quite a bit of damage if he had not used his head in this critical instance.

F. D. PERKINS BACK FROM SOUTH TEXAS

Dudley ePrkins, one of McKinney's most widely and favorably known citizens over the state and prominent business man and civic leader, has just returned from a business trip to Waco and points in South Texas. Mr. Perkins' name is being widely connected over the state as suitable timber for the Highway commission. His friends and admirers everywhere are endorsing the proposal, because of his pre-eminent qualifications in every respect for the position to which they hope the incoming Governor, Jimmie Allred, will appoint him when the next vacancy occurs on the commission.

WEEDEN FRANKLIN HOME IS BEING NICELY REPAINTED

Mr. and Mrs. J. Weedin Franklin are having their pretty, big two-story home on South Tennessee street dressed up in a couple of brand new coats of paint. Lat Chandler is doing the work, and there are no better, no more courteous workers than he. This improvement will add much to the civic appearance of this part of South Tenessee street which is close in to the city's business district.

Considerable repainting is going on over the city, and a great deal more needs to be done; Improvements of every kind almost ceased for three or four years during the depression, but have picked up considerably during the past few months. We hope other McKinney home owners will decide to fololw the example of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin. The present fall has been a very favorable season for doing such work as painting and repainting as well as doing other property improvements of every kind.

FARMER DEBT LAW EXPLAINED JUDGE SIMPSON

Judge Cecil L. Simpson, recently appointed conciliation commissioner for Dallas county, having to do with the new bankruptcy act relating to farmers, Friday gave out the following statement:

"Section 75 of the bankruptcy law as amended provides for farm debt adjustment through a conciliation commissioner; and if such efforts at conciliation fail, the farmer may amend his petition if he so desires and go through bankruptcy under what is known as the Frazier-Lemke amendment approved June 7, 1934, same being an amendment to section 75 of the bankruptcy law as aforesaid.

"The definition of a farmer under the act is any individual who is personally bona-fide engaged in farming operations or the principal part of whose income is derived from farming operations, and includes the executor or administrator of the estate of a deceased farmer. A farmer shall be deemed a resident of the county in which his farming operations occur.

"Farmers may take advantage of this law as far as the jurisdiction of the conciliation commissioner extends, without cost, except a filing fee of $10 is necessary where a petition is filed. Since the commissioner acts in a sort of advisory capacity for all parties, the services of an attorney are not necessary, though the law does not forbid the employment by the farmer of an attorney. However, in the event conciliation fails and the farmer desires to enter on bankruptcy, the services of an attorney will become necessary.

"The filing of a petition under the law stops any foreclosure proceedings against the farmer's property and bankruptcy under the Frazier-Lemke amendment permits him to retain possession of his property and to repurchase same on the installment plan over a period of six years on the basis of a revaluation."

Farmers, or other interested persons may obtain further information by calling on Judge Simpson at his office, 702 Fidelity building, Dallas.

LOCAL ARTIST CHOOSES MARINE MOUNTAIN SCENES

Roscoe Horn, young McKinney artist, recently submitted to the Texas Centennial headquarters, at Dallas, a lovely poster sketch, drawn by him for use as the Centennial may need. Mr. Horn who is the son of Mrs. Gano Horn, might be called a true artist, having shown even at the early age of six years a tendency towards drawing.

This is explained when it is learned that he comes from an artistic family. His mother took art when a young girl. She has a picture in the art department of the Collin County Free fair this year, which she painted nearly fifty years ago. His sisters, Mrs. B. C. Treadaway, of McKinney and Mrs. Donald Hess, of Bradenton, Florida, also took art study. However, her son is the only one actually engaged in the active field at this time.

Mr. Horn says he learned to use a pencil almost as soon as he did a spoon. He had his first lesson in art under an art teacher when twelve years old and while still going to school at Gunter, Texas. He took art there for about six months.

He took no more art instruction until 1924, when he went to California to enter the San Diego Academy of Fine Arts, San Diego, California. The academy is one of the best art schools on the West Coast. It is located in the center of a 1,400-acre tract, Balboa Park, where one can sit and paint for a week at a time and never paint the same thing twice, so Mr. Horn tells us. He spent three years there. At the end of the second year, he won the Susie Osbornson DeVol Annual scholarship, given each year by the director and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene DeVol, in memory of the director's mother.

Since returning to Texas, he has spent one summer at the artist colony at Taos, New Mexico, and some time in Colorado. He has painted in four states, California, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas. He has exhibited his work in California and Texas and has won several prizes.

For subjects, he prefers the mountains of the Southwest, oceanic and wharf scenes. His paintings reflect a depth, a beauty and clearness that are considered remarkable.

Mrs. J. C. Copeland, who fell and broke her hip a little more than six weeks ago, is still a patient in the McKinney City hospital. She and her husband have long been residents of McKinney. They are the parents of Miss Lela Copeland, who is County Treasurer-elect of this county, due to assume her office on the first of the coming year.

Work is progressing nicely on the new brick oil station being erected by the Magnolia company, on South Tennessee street. It will be ready for occupancy in some thirty days.

South Wilcox Methodists Hear Young Ministers

Good crowds were present both morning and evening hours at the South Wilcox Street Methodist church Sunday. The pastor, Rev. F. Lamar McGown, was absent from his pulpit in attendance at the annual conference in Dallas. At these services his pulpit was supplied Sunday morning by Rev. Alexander Moody while at the evening hour Rev. Clyde Ford, a son of Rev. G. C. Ford, was in the pulpit. Both these young ministers are pre-theological students at Southern Methodist university, Dallas. They brought able messages Sunday to those who heard them.

YOUR HOME TOWN

SEEN HERE AND THERE

Merry-makers, clad in all kinds of funny-looking costumes, and with all kinds of noise-making devices, will have their fling tonight, when, after sundown, the world will observe another Hallowe'en ... Joe Bob, young son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Young, is a livewire, 100 per cent youngster, and is liked by everyone ... Don't forget the McKinney High Lions play their first home conference game of the season Friday night at Newsome stadium; the Denison High Yellowjackets will furnish the opposition, and we have it on good authority they plan on administering a 'sting' to the Lions ... Hallowe'en has a double significance for D. W. Bagwill, the occasion being his birthday; he is being given the 'glad hand' by many friends and acquaintances; congratulations ... Glad to learn that our good young friend, Talmadge Eddins, son of Prof. and Mrs. C. T. Eddins, is making a fine record at Oklahoma university; he's specializing in journalism.

The McKinney Junior Chamber of Commerce is engaged in a campaign to have every qualified voter in Collin county go to the polls and vote in the general election next Tuesday, November 6. This is the duty of every Collin voter, as well as every voter in the state. On that date, the state officials for the next two years will be elected. Although the Democratic party is so ponderously large in Texas that no trouble will be experienced in electing the Democratic nominees, yet there are eight amendments to the constitution, which are to be voted on and which are of vital interest to all. The Jaycees are urging that every one go to the polls and cast their ballot on that date. They are not urging this because the larger the vote the more representative will be the election. It is your duty to vote on that date. Go to the polls and cast your ballot.

C. C. C. CARED FOR 850,000 MEN IN 18 MONTHS

Direct employment was given 850,000 young men by the Civilian Conservation Corps organization from its start April 5, 1933, to August 31, 1934, at a cost of $443,000,000. Of this amount, $136,000,000 was paid to the boys and they sent $113,000,000 of it to their families for relief. Other expenditures include $42,358,000 for clothing, shoes and textiles, $45,800,000 for food, $31,500,000 for transportation, $30,400,000 for shelter, construction material and labor, $17,500,000 for acquisition of new lands added to national forests, $14,000,000 for automotive equipment. The balance was for heavy machinery, tools and other equipment, and employment of 18,000 forestry and technical experts.

The present authorized enrollment of the 1,640 camps, located in all states, is 369,000 including camps for 20,000 Indians. To fill vacancies caused by an average of 10,000 young men going into private employment per month, an additional enrollment of 100,000 started October 1. About 6,000 army reserve officers are now on duty. Since the work began, about 50,000 skilled workers were employed for varying terms in camp construction. Accomplishments listed in Director Robert Fechner's report to the President included:

Addition of five million acres to national forests and 67,000 acres to national parks. Advancement of the national forestry program from five to 15 years; eradication of insects over 2,700,000 acres, rodents and other destructive agencies over 7,000,000 acres, tree attacking diseases over 1,200,000 acres; planting of more than 15 million trees; construction of 34,570 miles of truck trails, opening up 23,000 miles of fire breaks; 609,000 dams in gullies to stop soil erosion and holding forest fire losses this year far below the record of other years, despite the direst summer in decades. To July 31, the boys had spent 1,036,000 man-days fighting fires.

Outdoor work, regular hours and wholesome food increased average weight of the youths seven pounds, according to the latest tests in all camps. They have acquired self-reliance and learned new trades through an efficient educational system.

All of these injured parties were well known in McKinney and this county. Rev. Mr. Whiteside is a former pastor of the First Methodist church at McKinney, where he and his wife have a host of friends.

JAYCEES URGE QUALIFIED VOTERS TO CAST BALLOT

The McKinney Junior Chamber of Commerce, at its regular semi-monthly meeting held in the local Chamber of Commerce rooms Monday night, went on record as favoring a campaign to urge every qualified voter, both men and women, to exercise their duty as a citizen and vote in the general election November 6, a week from today.

The Jaycees urge every citizen and qualified voter to keep in mind the fact that it is their duty to vote in the November 6 election. The young business men's organization urge voters to familiarize themselves with the eight amendments to the Constitution of Texas to be voted on, studying each of them and registering their convictions at the ballot box.

The Jaycees will do everything possible in seeing that those qualified cast a ballot in this election in order that it may be truly representative. State leaders have asserted that there seems to be a lack of interest on the part of some concerning the amendments to be voted on. The fact that the election is only one week away behooves every citizen to spend the remaining time in a careful and thoughtful study of these amendments and other issues to be decided and then go out and cast their ballot on November 6.

J. Lovejoy Comegys, president, presided at the meeting, which was well attended.

A favorable report was heard from the band committee, made by Homer W. Wilson, showing that local citizens are taking a greater interest in the McKinney Junior Chamber of Commerce band, directed by Prof. Ralph E. Frazier. It was pointed out that mothers having boys and girls in the band are greatly interested in the organization and are seeing to it that the organization grows and continues to improve.

W. P. Abernathy and President Lovejoy Comegys both reported on a recent meeting of the Jaycee Centennial committee in which the idea of establishing two or three park sites along Collin county highways was discussed. If these spots, consisting of about a half acre of ground, can be obtained from some public spirited landowner and converted into a beautiful park, they will be maintained by the State Highway department. It is the plan of those in charge to secure two or three parks in this county as well as in other counties over the state, where shrubs and flowers will be planted and benches placed along the roadway, proving an ideal place for State Centennial visitors to pause for a while on their 1936 visit to the state. It will also eliminate the hazards of parked cars along the highway and, of course, one looking into the future can readily foresee how these beauty spots will add to the attractiveness of our state highways and countryside generally.

Earl Walker, local Red Cross Roll Call chairman, talked briefly, declaring that the drive in McKinney will start Monday, November 12. He said that he was expecting some valuable help from local citizen in this drive.

The organization voted to publish their bulletin semi-monthly, prior to each meeting. Secretary Roland Boyd will have this activity in charge.

A permanent Red River County Townsend Old Age Pension club was formed at Clarksville Sunday afternoon at a meeting in the district courtroom, attended by a large crowd of people from every section of the county. Preceding the organization of the club, speakers familiar with the proposition were heard including Pat Beadle, Superintendent of Schools R. M. White, the Rev. L. P. Parker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Clarksville, Dr. Nowlin Watson, and others. Numerous signatures to petition directed to local congressmen were secured.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Young and daughter, Alice Ann, of Dallas, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Pfaff in this city. Mesdames Young and Pfaff are sisters.

CALDWELL-YOUNG WEDDING IS SOLEMNIZED

POPULAR McKINNEY GIRL IS BRIDE DALLAS YOUNG MAN

On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock the First Methodist church of this city was the scene of an elaborate wedding when Miss Frances Marion Caldwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Caldwell, became the bride of Paul Compton Young of Dallas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Compton Young, with Dr. Minor Bounds officiating with the impressive ring ceremony. The church was decorated in graceful palms, southern smilax and huge yellow chrysanthemums. A background for the wedding scene was made of palms and lattice work of smilax. Standing on either side were tall nineteen branch candelabra while immediately in front of the candles were tall floor baskets of chrysanthemums. Marking the approach to the altar down either aisle were placed tall candelabras holding five tapers. The choir loft and columns of the church were hung in smilax.

The wedding ceremony was read by candle light.

Prior to the ceremony Mrs. Gibson Caldwell, mother of the bride, rendered a beautiful organ recital. She also accompanied Ray Chapman of Huntsville who sang as a pre-nuptial song "For You Alone." Mrs. Caldwell wore a velvet gown of wine velvet with a velvet hat to match. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of talisman roses.

Attending Miss Caldwell were Mrs. Bradley Hoover, matron of honor, Miss Margaret Ozella Abernathy, maid of honor; Misses Rosie Lindsley and Sara Miller of Dallas, bridesmaids. Autumn shades were carried out in the gowns worn by the attendants, being fashioned of zinnia velvet made Empress style with semi-train, long sleeves and high cowl neckline. Rhinestone clips and belt buckles ornamented the back of the gowns. They wore small velvet hats with brown tulle flares. They carried large colonial bouquets of chrysanthemums in shades of yellow and bronze and tied with gold satin ribbon.

Little Misses Annie Malone Erwin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Erwin Jr., and Goldie Mae Caldwell, sister of the bride, were flower girls. They wore little velvet dresses of tangerine shade, made with puff sleeves and full skirts. They wore bandeaux of brown velvet, sox and slippers of brown and carried rose petals in gold baskets.

The bride, who is one of the beautiful and beloved young ladies of the city, was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown was fashioned of antique velvet, made empire style with a long slashed train. The bodice was made with long sleeves and high neckline, ornamented in rhinestone clips. Her veil of bridal illusion fell full length of the train from a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses, orchids and lilies of the valley.

The groomsmen and ushers were Jim Caldwell, brother of the bride; Mac Gregory, best man, Hutty Miers, Field Scofell and John Young, brother of the groom, all of Dallas.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell entertained with a small reception at their home on College street for the members of the bridal party, Miss Caldwell's hostesses of recent parties and out-of-town guests. Refreshments of ice ceam, which was frozen in the shape of horse shoes with "good luck" thereon and the wedding cake, was served, in the dining room. The dining room was decorated in talisman roses and yellow chrysanthemums. Centering the table which was laid in a lace cloth over green satin, was the wedding cake made in ring shape, the center filled with talisman roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Young left on a short bridal trip after which they will be at home on Prescott street, Dallas. Mrs. Young's going-away costume was a brown suit trimmed with squirrel. She wore a pink blouse and her hat, shoes and bag were of brown.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Caldwell and she was born and reared in this city. She is an honor graduate of Boyd High school and also an honor graduate of S. M. U., Dallas. She is a member of the Pi Beta Phi sorority. She is a member of the Halcyon club of this city and is most popular in social and church activities here. Mr. Young is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Compton Young of Dallas, where he has lived a greater part of his life. He attended State university at Austin and also S. M. U., where he is member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

The many friends of this young couple over the state extend them congratulations and wish them long lives of happiness together.

Mrs. Cranfil H. Cox of Gilmer spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. J. M. Foster, and family, in this city. Her daughter, Miss Mary Jo Cox, who attends C. I. A. in Denton, was also a week-end guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Foster.

The Alla Hubbard girls' basket ball team won over Lone Star in the first game of the season by a score of 24 to 5.

ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM WILL CONTINUE IN '35

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has announced that the cotton adjustment program will continue into the 1935 season. According to County Farm Agent Jack McCullough, this announcement is made in order that the more than one million cotton farmers, who signed 1934 and 1935 cotton contracts can proceed with their farming plans next season with full assurance that the voluntary cotton adjustment program will be made effective for 1935 under the terms of the two-year contracts.

It is emphasized by officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration that the secretary's announcement was not constitute the formal proclamation which the cotton contract requires. It is assurance that by December 1 such a proclamation will be issued. The Cotton section of the Administration is engaged in developing the details of the 1935 program. These include the amount of reduction in acreage to be required and the amount and manner of rental and parity payments to be made. Agent McCullough says that the complete details will be announced as soon as they are completed and approved. It is said that an important phase of the 1935 program is offering cotton producers who did not sign the 1934-35 contracts an opportunity to sign a contract covering the 1935 season. In addition to enabling farmers who are cooperating in programs to make their cropping plans for 1935, the preliminary announcement that adjustment will continue is made in order to prevent any misunderstanding of the relationship between the voluntary cotton adjustment program and the Bankhead Cotton Marketing Act.

The Bankhead Act will become effective for its second year if the president finds and proclaims that the cotton production and marketing emergency continues or is likely to continue, and if the secretary of agriculture determines that two-thirds of the cotton producers favor the continuance of the act. Any expression of producers' opinion which may be asked in connection with the Bankhead Act will not affect the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's obligations under the adjustment contract. Plans are under way to give the producers an opportunity to express their opinion on the Bankhead Act for 1935 but, it is emphasized, regardless of the decision of producers as to that supplementary form of control, the voluntary adjustment program will be continued into 1935.

TIME TO TREAT FRUIT TREES FOR PEACH TREE BORER SAYS PROF. J. T. ROLLINS

Prof. J. T. Rollins, head of the McKinney High school vocational agriculture department, declares that those having fruit trees that have been attacked by the peach tree borer, can combat the destruction of these insects if they will give a little attention to their trees early this fall. The borer is responsible for a great deal of destruction among the peach and plum trees of Collin county orchards.

An examination of the bark of the trees just below the ground level will soon tell one where the trees are affected. If the bark is roting and there are evidences of rot in the wood under the bark then one can be fairly certain that the borer is at work.

"There are two remedies that one can rely upon," according to Prof. Rollins. "One is to take a knife or wire and pick out these worms and destroy them and then apply some repellant to the area of the three affected. Probably the best method to use is to scrape the dirt away from the trunk of the tree, being sure to get all the loose leaves and bark away in the dirt around the tree about 2 inches from the bark and the trench to be about 1 inch deep and 2 inches wide.

"Fill this trench with Para-Dichlorebenzene, commercially known as Dichlorocide, then cover over with dirt in a cone shape around the base of the tree until the mound reaches about 12 inches up the tree. Pack this dirt and leave through the winter. The fumes of this chemical will kill the larva of the borer."

This method, says Prof. Rollins, should not be used if the soil temperature at the time of treatment is below 60 degrees. About 3 to 4 ounces is required for the treatment of one tree.

G. N. WHITE SUCCESSFUL FARMER NEAR CALLIS

This editor, while perambulating over the county with Frank Blackwell of the McKinney Realty Co., ran across our good friend, G. N. White, living on Route 3, out of Blue Ridge, near the Callis schoolhouse. Mr. White is a native of Indiana, but a Texan by choice. Fifty-four years ago he came o Texas and located in the community in which he now resides. For thirteen years, he has resided on the same farm and will remain during 1935, and probably longer. He is a man of much information keeping up with the times, and it was a real pleasure for this editor to again meet and talk to him. He has the respect and confidence of his neighbors and friends and fortunate is that community in having such a good citizen for so long a while as G. N. White.

Texas' Struggle for Freedom Began 100 Years Ago

Centenary Recalls Parallels in History of Hawaii

By GEORGE TICHENOR

Exactly one hundred years ago, Texas began the march toward full Statehood, which, in the space of eleven years brought her into the Union. Observing this centenary year of the meeting of October 5, 1834, Texans look back with justifiable pride upon a long record of illustrious progress and achievement. The history of the Lone Star State, studded with great names and great deeds, is a record which epitomizes the growth of American institutions and ideals from the earliest days to the most recent times.

Since political astonomers now predict that Hawaii will emerge as the 49th Star in the American Constellation, the event is of particular interest to Texans, for Texas shares with Hawaii, and only with Hawaii, the distinction of having been an absolutely independent and sovereign nation at the time of their admission to the Union. This attitude of courageous self-sufficiency indeed actuated both communities throughout the calm and troubled periods of their histories. In Texas, this spirit displayed itself at all times as an off-shoot of the early Colonial spirit of America which adopted as a symbol the coiled rattle-snake, and the slogan "Don't Tread on Me!" Slow of speech and quick on the draw, Texas has never faltered when her name and honor were at stake!

Only ninety-seven years spans the gap between Texas' first Capitol and her last.

The glory of the Lone Star State is reflected in the beauty and stability of her Capitol at Austin.

Occasion is Significant

The significant anniversary which Texas will be observing this year has a double significance because another State in the Union is in the process of becoming, a State which has close kinship to Texas, not only by ties of race, but also by a heritage of common experience, which must evoke the sympathy of all who venerate the ordeals and glorious moments of Texas history.

Some straws in the wind are: the President's recent visit to Hawaii which focussed the attention of the rest of the country upon the great strides made by our fellow-countrymen in the Pacific; the large commercial enterprises of the Islands (Hawaii pays more internal revenue than 16 mainland States); the fact that application for Statehood is a live political issue in Hawaii, and that Joseph R. Farrington, Editor of the Star-Bulletin and son of a former Governor, has made it the principal plank of his platform, as candidate for the Territorial Senate.

Compares With Hawaii

For more than four hundred years there have been certain significant and deeply interesting historical parallels between the Lone Star State and these Islands, which, thanks to New England missionary zeal, first turned in friendship toward the United States in 1820. Both were discovered by Spain.

Juan Gaetano, a Spanish captain, brought the first record of discovery of the civilized world in 1555. Le Perouse, the celebrated Frenchman who visited Hawaii in 1796, says that Gaetano saw these islands, "with their naked savages, coconuts and other fruits, but no gold or silver." There being nothing attractive to a wealth-loving Spaniard, he simply marked the islands on a chart and never visited them again. That record, kept in Spanish achives, is now accepted as marking the real discovery of Hawaii. Captain Cook, who formally claimed the Islands for England in 1778, was almost certainly acquainted with Gaetano's prior discovery.

Early Days in Texas

Then, for more than two hundred years Hawaii fades into historical oblivion, while Texas slowly and falteringly—under Spanish rule—becomes dotted with missions, presidios and pueblos. But twenty-five years before the Louisiana Purchase brought Texas into geographical contact with the United States—in 1778 to be exact—the empire-minded Captain Cook, sailing from the South Seas toward what is now British Columbia, sighted quite by chance an archipelago which he called "Sandwich" in honor of his patron, a noble lord of that name. He paid the supreme penalty for his discovery, for within a few months he was killed in a beach battle with the natives, but he gave what we now call Hawaii to the civilized world. Thus Cook, whose country was at that time waging war with the United States, set the Hawaiian Islands on that course of destiny which finds them today an integral part of the United States.

New England missionaries came to the Islands in 1820, and opened the first schools. Within a few years, general education was compulsory, by royal decree, and Hawaii's school system was so outstanding that children of California's gold rush days were sent across the ocean to receive an education in the Islands. Hawaii's first newspaper was printed in 1834.

Americans in Hawaii

From the earliest days, Americans played a part in the government of those islands as members of the kings' cabinets. Americans were the first group of business men to begin constructive work for the betterment of the whole community. Hitherto traders had been content to spoil Hawaii's forests of sandalwood and gradually impoverish the community, but Americans in 1835 began the planting of sugar cane, in the face of labor troubles, insecurity of land tenure, inadequacy of machinery and intense competition from countries employing cheaper labor.

Texas Population Grows

While Americans were working within and for the Hawaiian monarchy in the early days of the last century, the Mississippi River proved no barrier to the resistless surge of emigration westward from the southern States into Louisiana and Texas.

Two antagonistic cultures came into increasingly sharp conflict, a conflict that could end only in open and decisive warfare. Santa Anna, overthrowing the liberal Mexican government in 1834, established himself as a virtual dictator, and decided to have no more nonsense from the troublesome and too independent Anglo-Saxons who were inundating Texas. He called a conference at which Stephen F. Austin, Mexican generals and Mexican secretaries-of-state were present. Independence was flatly denied to the land north of the Rio Grande, but at this meeting—held on October 5, 1834—Santa Anna stated that he "viewed with the greatest regard" his unruly Texan subjects. But he decided that his esteem for this stiff-necked and rebellious people needed some reinforcement, so he sent General Mejai with 4000 troops to keep them happy.

The embers of rebellion smouldered and then burst into flame. The legislature of Coahuila, early adepts of the spoils system, sold off huge tracts of the public domain of Texas to distant speculators at prices as low as one and one-half cents an acre. Texans saw themselves economically despoiled and tyrannically ruled. Captain Dimitt led the troops and citizens of Goliad in signing a Declaration of Independence on December 20, 1835, and while this document never came into actual effect, it did focus attention on the advantages of complete independence. The story of Alamo needs no retelling here. The blood of Travis, Crockett and Bowie is peculiarly a Texas heritage, but their grim heroism has rightly become a national tradition.

Brutality of Santa Anna

Santa Anna, seeking an excuse to use a firing squad more often, passed a law that any alien entering Texas armed was no more than a pirate and should be treated accordingly. This gave a more color of legality to his practice of shooting prisoners of war, a practice of unspeakable brutality which failed completely to bend in submission the stiff knees of the rebels.

David Kalakaua, the last Hawaiian king, elected by the legislature, died in 1891 and his sister, Queen Liliuokalani, assumed the crown.

She tried to put through the legislature a new constitution which would re-enact an absolute mon[...]archy. Her cabinet refused to rat[ify] it. In the meanwhile, a "Committ[ee] of Safety" was organized and l[ed] by Americans. They decided th[at] the only solution for existing ev[ils] was to annex the Islands to t[he] United States. It became a cont[est] between the Committee of Safe[ty] and supporters of the queen. T[he] committee became the aggress[or,] took possession of the Governme[nt] Executive Building and proclaim[ed] the abolition of the monarchy.

Hawaii's New Government

The Provisional Government [of] Hawaii followed the precedent [of] Texas. Sanford B. Dole, "Hawai[i's] Grand Old Man," was proclaim[ed] President of the new Governme[nt] with John H. Soper as general [of] the provisional armed forces, [on] January 17, 1893.

The long struggle made by Tex[as] to join the Union came to a foc[us] in 1845 with the passage of a jo[int] Congressional resolution on Feb[ru]ary 28, promptly approved by Pre[si]dent Polk the next day. On Octob[er] 13 it was ratified by a Tex[as] general convention, and w[ith] the President's signature [on] December 29, the brave a[nd] venturesome republic yield[ed] her sovereignty to [be]come the Lone St[ar] State.

War Brings Annexatio[n]

As in the case [of] Texas, it required w[ar] with a foreign power [to] bring two American communiti[es] under the same flag. When t[he] United States became embroiled [in] the war with Spain, Hawaii re[n]dered service to our country by f[ur]nishing supplies and rest for t[he] fleet en route to the Philippin[es]. Negotiations proceeded rapid[ly] and on August 12, 1898, the Haw[ai]ian Republic was formally annex[ed] to the United States. Two yea[rs] later, Congress passed the act whi[ch] made the Hawaiian Islands a Ter[ri]tory. This act went into effect [on] July 14, 1900.

Along agricultural lines Haw[aii] has pioneered both from the scie[n]tific angle and from the standpoi[nt] of cooperation. Today, when a li[m]ited degree of cooperation is bei[ng] forced on mainland agriculture [in] its own defense, we find that t[he] Hawaiian sugar plantations ha[ve] been drawn together into a close[-]knit and intelligently progressi[ve] organization since 1895. Due to th[is] association, they pay their labo[r a] higher wage than the mainla[nd] average, provide year-round-w[ork] and assume a degree of social r[e]sponsibility that is entirely u[n]known and impossible under con[di]tions of unrestricted cut-thro[at] competition.

But, today, this does not mea[n] that Hawaii is allowed to sell th[eir] sugar to the rest of the Unite[d] States. Under the Jones-Costig[an] Act, the Secretary of Agricultur[e] strives to shove the Islands [...] into a "insular possessions," in a[r]riving at a quota for the prepo[n]derently major product—suga[r]. Strangely and seriously, Hawaii [is] sugar and sugar is Hawaii.

Texas and Cotton Status

In Hawaii the sugar crop cycle [is] a full eighteen months. Diminish[ing] the production is no matter [of] turning a handle or giving an orde[r].

Though the sugar restrictions a[re] sufficiently burdensome in them[-] selves, the significance of th[e] Act itself is the motive of the H[a]waiian Sugar Planters' suit. The[y] claim that it shows discriminatio[n] against Hawaii in favor of forei[gn] nations and insular possession[s,] failing utterly to recognise the fa[ct] that Hawaii by the treaty of anne[x]ation is an integral part of th[e] United States, and thus entitled [to] domestic consideration and trea[t]ment. The situation would be [iden]tically parallel if the Governmen[t] laid down cotton restrictions whic[h] were generous in Louisiana an[d] rigid in Texas. Hawaii does not see[k] to avoid her just share of the eco[n]omic burden; she merely demand[s] that just share, whether heavy o[r] light. She demands her rights [to] be treated like any mainland Sta[te] and viewed in that light, her [illegible] commercial. High principles [illegible] of [illegible] in this the 49th aspirant [illegible] Statehood!

JURY IN MRS. BOGARD CASE RETURNS VERDICT OF GUILTY; GIVE DEFENDANT 5-YEAR SUSPENDED SENTENCE

The jury in the case against Mrs. Bessie Bogard, charged with murder, reported at 9:30 o'clock this (Thursday) morning, returning a verdict of guilty and giving the defendant a five-year suspended sentence.

At 11:15 o'clock Wednesday morning the jury, in the case of the State of Texas vs. Mrs. Bessie Bogard, facing a charge of murder, malice aforethought, of Miss Lavina Wilson, 17, was given the case after attorneys for both state and defense had made their pleas.

The state and defense rested late Tuesday afternoon, following a busy day in Fifty-Ninth District court, which had witnessed about twenty-five of the approximately fifty witnesses called to the stand.

Following Judge F. E. Wilcox's charge to the jury, attorneys began their arguments before the jury, each side being permitted one hour for their pleas. Hon L. J. Truett spoke for the defense, while County Attorney W. C. Dowdy and his assistant, Leon O. Moses, spoke for the state.

Again Wednesday, as on Monday and Tuesday, the district courtroom was crowded to capacity. All seats were taken long before court convened today, and when all standing room had been taken, Judge Wilcox again ordered the doors closed and officers placed at each door to turn away others who sought admission.

Tuesday, when court recessed for the noon hour, few of those occupying seats left their vantage points, most of whom brought along their own lunches, thermos bottles and cushions.

The general public has shown as much interest in this case as in any former murder trial ever conducted in this county. Greater interest centered in the trial since the defendant is said to be the first white woman ever brought to trial on a murder charge in the county.

In the group of witnesses, called by the state and defense attorneys Tuesday, was the defendant, Mrs. Bogard, who occupied the witness chair nearly two hours in the afternoon, and the parents of the slain girl, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wilson. Other witnesses included Walter Snider, of the Isaac Crouch Funeral home, who brought the body of the slain girl to McKinney; Deputy Sheriffs A. G. Sparlin, Jim Douglass and George Eubanks; J. D. Shipman, Miss Florine Wilson, sister of the slain girl; C. W. Petty, brother-in-law of Miss Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. Thurl Sanders, Miss Sylvia Bogard, J. W. Gidney, J. R. Wilson, Fondy McGarr, Mrs. Vaughn Sweeney and others.

Only about half of the witnesses who had been summoned were examined during the taking of testimony in Tuesday's court session.

Jurors in the case are:

Hugh Feagin.
R. C. Eubank.
W. T. Bozeman.
W. D. Angle.
F. E. Douglass.
A. M. Cuffman.
Quincy Parnell.
H. G. Johnson.

FOOD SHOW COMES TO A SUCCESSFUL CLOSE SATURDAY

The twentieth annual pure food show, one of the most successful and possibly the best attended in history, closed at the city coliseum Saturday night after four afternoons and nights of entertainment for every one attending.

The largest crowd in the history of the show was present Saturday night. The throng, which packed the coliseum, enjoyed the final night, the special prizes and other features. All were pleased with the beauty of the coliseum, which was especially decorated and beautifully arranged for the event.

Crowds throughout the whole four days were satisfactory to the sponsors, the ladies of the First Presbyterian church. The exhibits were larger and better than ever. The cooking school, conducted by Mrs. Eva Mashburn, famous culinary expert, and sponsored by the Texas Power & Light company, drew a large number of local housewives each afternoon, while the feature programs by talented pupils of McKinney expression and dancing teachers the first three nights was also appreciated.

Congratulations are in order to the ladies of the First Presbyterian church and all connected with the food show and cooking school for the excellent manner in which it was carried out.

McKinney extended a welcome to a band of about forty good will trippers from Fort Worth Wednesday afternoon. The delegation was headed by A. T. Lowry, trip chairman and representative of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show, and by E. G. Cotton, executive secretary of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce. They expressed themselves as pleased with the excursion which visited about twenty North Texas cities in two days.

Mr. and Mrs. Balder Hancock of Decatur county, Tennessee, are here, the guests of their cousins, W. D. Smith of this city, C. B. and I. L. Smith of Celina. This is their first visit to Texas. W. D. Smith, one of the largest land owners in the county, took Mr. Hancock over the western section of the county where he owns several hundred acres of land. Mr. Hancock was surprisingly pleased at our wonderful county and with Texas, this being his first visit.

Editor A. G. (Pat) Mayse and wife of Paris visited McKinney relatives and friends for a short while Friday. Mr. Mayse is editor of the Paris Morning News.

MISS EFFIE MARIE MATHEWS BRIDE OF GLEN NELSON

Glen Nelson of this city and Miss Effie Marie Mathews of Allen, were happily married in Fort Worth Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the home of Dr. T. W. Hall pastor of the Boulevard Methodist church, the Rev. Mr. Hall officiating. The couple remained in Fort Worth on their honeymoon the past week-end, after which they returned to McKinney to make their future home.

The groom is a son of Mrs. J. Webb Nelson of this city while Mrs. Nelson is a daughter of Mrs. R. A. Dickerson of Allen. The romance of the couple began about four years ago, while both were students of Boyd High school. They are graduates of the local high school, and Mr. Nelson is now associated with the J. P. Dowell hardware store.

The couple have the best wishes of a multitude of friends upon

DR. J. H. COZAD OCCUPIES FIRST BAPTIST PULPIT

Dr. J. H. Cozad ably occupied his pulpit at the First Baptist church at both services Sunday. He is a preacher of exceptional ability, as well as a popular pastor and citizen. During his vacation this summer and fall, he gave his services to some fellow pastors in other states in holding successful revival meetings. At the 11:00 o'clock service Sunday, Miss Janet Miller was soloist with Mrs. Paul K. Wilson, pipe organist of that church, as accompanist. Dr. Cozad is having fine cooperation from his church membership which is the largest of our city or county in carrying along the program of that church this year, for the extension of the Master's Kingdom.

JUDGE J. FRANK HARRINGTON IS TRINITY SPEAKER

Judge J. Frank Harrington and wife of this city attended the annual observance of Dad's and Mother's day held at Trinity university in Waxahachie on Friday. Francis, son of Judge and Mrs. Harrington, is a junior in Trinity and is a regular guard on the football team, chairman of the Intramural Council, and business manager of the Mirage. Judge Harrington addressed the gathering, praising the high academic standing of Trinity among the schools of the world, and lauded Trinity for the manner in which it builds character. He stated that he had been interested in Trinity for twenty years and that he had watched the products of Trinity as they took leading places in the religious, economic, civic and social life of the nation.

Former Maylor M. T. Jones is still a patient in the McKinney City hospital, but is improving. His son, wife and daughter of Farmersville were here visiting him Wednesday evening.

Hon. John Reese, city attorney, witnessed the McKinney-Sherman football game in Sherman Friday night.

Mrs. Dr. A. H. Bridgefarmer the efficient Melissa correspondent of the Daily Courier-Gazette and the Weekly Democrat-Gazette, was a business visitor at the office of these papers Monday morning. She tells us that the Melissa Garden club is having a public park laid out and beautified at Melissa. The labor is provided them free of cost by the Collin County Relief Board of McKinney under the direction of H. B. Bickers, county administrator. Mrs. Bridgefarmer says that the ladies of the garden club are receiving much commendation for their enterprise in helping to beautify their splendid little city, seven miles north of McKinney, and add to its civic attractiveness.

Austin Gage, an efficient postal employe of the Sherman post office, and wife passed through McKinney Sunday evening en route home from attending the North Texas Annual conference of the Methodist church, at Dallas. Car trouble developed after reaching McKinney, necessitating his leaving the car here for repairs. His good friend and fellow postal worker of McKinney, Ernest Wilson, took Mr. and Mrs. Gage on up to their home, at Sherman, in his car—a kindly favor that Mr. and Mrs. Gage greatly appreciate.

J. Frank Smith, business manager and co-publisher of the McKinney Examiner, one of the outstanding weekly papers of Texas and for years the guide and sceptor of thousands of Collin county families, was a short time visitor in Richardson Wednesday morning. Mr. Smith is associated with Charlie and Clint Thompson, both well known to many Richardson people.—Richardson Echo.

Ross Orenduff of this city and sisters, Mrs. O. C. Harris of Chambersville and Mrs. Frank Boone of Melissa, and Misses Arbye and Bea Boone, attended North Texas conference of the Methodist church in Dallas Sunday and heard Bishop Smith preach at the morning hour.

Claude Neely, manager of the local Coca Cola plant, states that recent word from his mother, Mrs. Frank M. Neely, Jacksboro, is to the effect that her health is some better than it has been for some time.

J. D. KENT OF BLUE RIDGE GETS CHOICE FARM

J. D. Kent is a prosperous and influential farmer of the Blue Ride community. These editors have known and liked him for a third of a century. Long has he been a reader of the Weekly Democrat-Gazette. He is a tiller of the soil and lives by the sweat of his brow.

He owns and lives on a 160-acre farm and has about 150 acres bescides. Wanted more land. Read an advertisement in the Daily Courier-Gazette and the Weekly Democrat-Gazette where the McKinney Realty company had 100 acres they wanted to let some one have.

Being of a kind disposition and always willing to be good to people, Mr. Kent came in and Tom W. Perkins and Frank Blackwell of the McKinney Realty Co. made him a deal. The land belonged to J. R. McCoy, popular and well known McKinney automobile man. Did not take long to deal because Mr. Kent knew a good bargain when he saw and Bob always will take the money.

Both were happy. Tom and Frank were happy. In fact, there were four happy ones when it happened. Lots of people are selling land and houses and trading with the McKinney Realty company. Unless you want to sell something, don't turn it over to them. They do entirely different and quick.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Foster have returned from a delightful visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huffhines at Gladewater, Texas.

HIGH SCHOOL DRAMATIC CLUB PRESENTS PLAY

The Dramatic club of the McKinney High school presented "A Quiet Evening at Home" as its first play of the year to the students of the high school Friday afternoon. Miss Ruth Dowell, English instructor, is sponsor of this club and directs the plays. The club personnel is made up of students of the high school.

The play was centered about Tom Norman, husband who wanted to stay at home and enjoy an evening of quietness for a change. Fitzhugh Newsome and James Beaver were two doctors who were in the plot to keep the weary husband at home instead of going with his wife, played by Miss Ruth Marcom, to the Follies. But in the end the husband was the loser, his wife forcing him to stay at home while she enjoyed both show and the fight.

Those in the cast were: Tom Norman, Ruth Marcom, Katherine Melton, Fitzhugh Newsome, James Beaver, Addie Truett, and Leonard Bridges.

Darcy L. Cage of Los Angeles recently visited his sister, Mrs. Una Birmingham, at her home on North Church street, this city. He was returning to California after a business trip to Detroit and Chicago. He came from those cities through Tennessee where he visited the old home of his parents, near Nashville.

TOTAL OF 35,605 BALES OF COTTON GINNED IN COUNTY PRIOR TO OCT. 18 SAYS MRS. GEORGE, STATISTICIAN

According to Mrs. Oscar George, Collin county cotton statistician, there were 35,605 bales of cotton ginned in Collin county, prior to October 18 this year. This is in comparison to 55,419 bales ginned to the same date in 1933. The decrease this year is due to the drouth and the government reduction campaign. There is very little cotton left in the fields at this time.

D. W. Lee, Route 1, Princeton, renews his subscription to the Weekly Democrat-Gazette for another year and also takes the Semi-Weekly Farm News, at clubbing rate. Mr. Lee, who is thus gaining two fine papers at a reduced rate, renews through Postmaster J. R. Gantt, at Princeton.

This editor had the good pleasure, while in the Blue Ridge community recently with Frank Blackwell of the McKinney Realty Co., to stop for a minute or two' chat with our good acquaintance and friend of many years, S. A. D. Box. Mr. Box has lived in the Blue Ridge community for nearly a half century. He is now on the sunny side of life, of three score year and ten. He has a good farm and one of the best improved in that section of the county. He has always stood for schools and churches and for the best interests of his community. Such men as S. A. D. Box make communities.

Mrs. N. S. Jefferson of McKinney has been made supervisor of the Emergency Education program of the Federal government in Collin county. She is an excellent teacher and has a fine knowledge of school affairs. Her headquarters are located in County Superintendent L. Dow Hendrick's office.

Mrs. Milt Turner, of the Rowlett community, who owns one of the prettiest farms in Collin county, was shopping with our merchants here.

Miss Kate Ryan of Lavon was a McKinney visitor Thursday.

Ed Cashion, a progressive farmer and livestockman, living between Rock Hill and McKinney, has built one of the largest new barns in Collin county, having just finished it. Mr. Cashion is a large landowner and farmer and deals quite extensively in livestock. He is one of the county fair's best friends,

W. T. Cozart, son of Mrs. W. T. Cozart, who lives a mile north of Celina, was injured in an automobile accident at Pilot Point.

Mrs. A. B. Kerley, Mrs. W. D. Mayes and Mrs. John Kerley of Frisco were visitors in McKinney.

This fall has been one of the most favorable autumns in several years for painting and repainting, so local paint contractors tell us. Considerable repainting has been done in McKinney and over the county, and we believe that this civic improvement is on the increase.

The Volunteer Firemen answered an alarm shortly after 2 o'clock this (Saturday) afternoon near the Colored Baptist church in Lewisville. Some hay, catching on fire, near the church caused the alarm to be turned in. However, the flames did not reach the church structure.

Prof. and Mrs. Earl Slaughter and little daughter were among those from McKinney seeing the game in Sherman Friday night.

Our friends of many years standing, N. D. Wall, of the Valdasta community, was greeting his many friends in our city. Prof. Wall was for many years an outstanding teacher of our county, but has not taught for the past few years.

Ben E. Cabell, president of Cabell's Inc., and owner of the Collin County Milk Products company plant of this city, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Owens, also of Dallas, were McKinney visitors Saturday afternoon ,visiting the McKinney plant, of which Glen Coleman is manager. The Dallas party also visited the twentieth annual pure food show, at which the Collin County Milk Products company had a most attractive booth. The Cabell's plant here operates several milk routes out of the city over the entire county.

Mrs. J. S. Carlisle and daughter, Miss Johnnie Lee, have gone to Denison to reside for the remainder of the school year. Miss Johnnie Lee recently accepted a position as teacher in the high school at Denison at quite a nice advance in salary over that which she was receiving in McKinney. The local School Board and Superintendent Jack R. Ryan were glad to cooperate with her in getting this advancement.

J. J. Morris, living on Route 2, out of Nevada, was in the city Saturday with his wife and daughters trading. Mr. Morris has long been a valuable and appreciative reader of the Weekly Democrat-Gazette. While in the city we had the pleasure of a visit from him. Come in and see us more often, Mr. Morris.

W. L. Bailey and J. H. Taylor, substantial residents of the Verona community, were in the county seat Saturday. Mr. Bailey called at our office, ordering the Weekly Democrat-Gazette sent to Miss Mittie Young, sister of his wife, who is a patient in St. Joseph's hospital, at El Paso.

Robert Forte, student in N. T. S. T. C., at Denton, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Q. Forte, in this city. He was accompanied by his roommate, W. L. Dunis, of Terrell.

Inmate State Prison Farm, Sentenced From This County, Fatally Stabbed In Fight At Huntsville Saturday Eve

Paul Rogers, alias Ted Rogers, 25, an inmate of the Texas State prison at Huntsville, was stabbed to death by Pete McKenzie, San Antonio killer, in a fight Saturday.

Rogers was sentenced from Collin county on November 23, 1932, to fifty-four years in the State penitentiary for robbery with firearms in two cases, burglary and theft over $50. He was sentenced along with Jack Hammett and Howard Alsup on a charge of robbery with firearms of Floyd Perkins, night watchman, and Mayor S. M. Francis of Celina. It was alleged that the trio robbed the Celina officials at a pistol's point, locked them in a box car and then burglarized the W. E. [illegible] store in Celina. Rogers was given twenty-five years on each charge of robbery and two years on the burglary and two in the theft over $50 charges.

He was also under sentence of ninety-nine years from Wichita county, being sentenced in a court there on a charge of robbery with firearms. He had also been sentenced from Clay county and had served a prior sentence in the State penitentiary.

Rogers was stabbed several times in the chest and abdomen, according to reports. The fight occurred about 2:00 p. m. Saturday and Rogers died about 5:00 o'clock the same afternoon.

McKenzie, who once was given the supreme penalty for the slaying of Chief of Detectives Sam Street of San Antonio, was pointed out by witnesses as the wielder of the knife.

No charges have been filed, although the case is being investigated by the county attorney.

Prisoners who witnessed the fight said there had been trouble between McKenzie and Rogers for the last few weeks and the stabbing took place after Rogers started clubbing McKenzie with a piece of wood.

"Pete tried to get away from Rogers when the fight started," General Lee Simmons said, "but Rogers kept following him and hitting at him with a club.

"Rogers finally got McKenzie cornered and McKenzie stabbed him with a home-made dirk that he had concealed in his clothing."

Dr. Minor Bounds Advanced To Presiding Eldership Of The McKinney District M. E. Church

Pastor First Methodist Church Succeeded by Dr. H. G. Ryan of Clarksville, Former Presiding Elder Here Two Years

Rev. F. Lamar McGown Becomes Pastor a Nevada; Other Assignments Made Sunday for New Conference Year

Promotion came to Dr. Minor Bounds, pastor of the First Methodist church, here ,during the conference year, ending November 1, when Bishop A. Frank Smith, presiding, Sunday afternoon at the closing session of the sixty-eighth annual North Texas conference of the First Methodist church, Dallas, read out his assignment as presiding elder of the McKinney District for the ensuing year.

Dr. Bounds had been unanimously endorsed by his official board and other officials to the number of about forty, asking for his return as pastor next year. But, the bishop and his cabinet decided to promote Dr. Bounds when the opportunity came in assigning a new presiding elder for the McKinney district. This will necessitate only a short move from the First church parsonage on Benge street to the district two-story parsonage, located on North Church street .

Dr. Bounds will have supervision of about twenty-five pastors who have preaching points in about fifty churches of Collin and Dallas counties. He has held pastorates of growing importance since he came into the ministry about thirty years ago. He was reared on a farm near Nevada. His wife was born and reared at Verona, both in this county. Dr. Bounds was licensed to preach in the McKinney First church, from whose pastorate he now retires to become presiding elder of his old boyhood home district. He is receiving many congratulations on his promotion. He and his good wife will, therefore, remain as residents of our city and county, so it is hoped for the full four-year limit that a presiding elder is allowed to serve the same work.

Dr. H. G. Ryan, Pastor.

Dr. H. G. Ryan, pastor of the First church, Clarksville, last year, comes to the First church. McKinney, succeeding Dr. Bounds as pastor. Dr. Ryan is no stranger here, he having served two years as presiding elder of the McKinney district, from which position he was sent one year ago to Clarksville. He and his very talented wife are gladly welcomed back to McKinney.

Rev. F. Lamar McGown, pastor of the South Wilcox Street Methodist church, was trancferred by Bishop Smith to the pastorate of the Nevada church in Southeast Collin. He and his cultured wife made a host of friends in McKinney, who regret to see them move away.

The new pastor of the South Wilcox church, Rev. F. A. Ray, is a new man in the district, having been transferred from Central Texas Annual conference to this conference.

Editorial Expression

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1934.

LET'S PASS AROUND THE HONOR.

North Texas feels very emphatically that it should have recognition when the time next comes for selecting a member of the Highway Commission. This area has never been so recognized during the entire life of the Highway Commission. It is true that the three members composing the body should be men of state-wide, patriotic vision with a will and sense of impartial judgment to deal with every section of this great state with uniform and unbiased fairness. But, the office, to a certain extent, should be rotated, sooner or later, so that no section— North Texas, South Texas, East Texas, West Texas, nor Central Texas— can say that it has been discriminated against, either purposely or inadvertently. North Texas proposes a man in the person of F. Dudley Perkins, who is admirably qualified and suited for the honor and McKinney and Collin county are presenting his application for appointment by the Governor when a place on the Commission becomes open. He is well educated, a graduate engineer, an experienced road construction engineer in building and a man of decision as an executive. Along with these qualifications his integrity of character and attributes of geniality stamp him as a most engaging personality with whom the public likes to deal. Mr. Perkins, not only has the backing of his home city and county and section of the state, but also has many advocates from Central and South Texas as well as other parts of the state, who believe that he could and would fill the bill most acceptably and creditably to the entire state if he were appointed. These editors and papers are one hundred per cent for his selection for the place when the time comes again for the Governor to name another Highway Commissioner.

THE TEXAS CANDIDATE FOR THE SPEAKERSHIP.

It is encouraging to observe that reports from Washington continue to be favorable to the candidacy of Congressman Sam Rayburn of Texas for speaker of the house.

Mr. Rayburn has, by his long and able service in congress and by his loyalty to the administration, abundantly earned the promotion. He is just the type of man that will be needed to wield the gavel in the house during the next session of congress.

Having been given the indorsement of the state Democratic convention and both houses of the legislature at Austin, Mr. Rayburn is definitely the Texas candidate for this important post.

Of course Mr. Rayburn has opposition from able candidates in other states. But, with the solid and enthusiastic support of his Texas colleagues and of Texas leaders, he is likely to win. Naturally, he deserves and has reason to expect this support in all the caucuses that are held in preparation for the organization of the new congress.

Candidates from other states are saying that Texans already hold their share of important places in congress. This argument should have little force, but the fact that it is being used means that the Texans must show a solid front.

Mr. Rayburn is the logical man for the speakership not only because he has been loyal to the administration but because, during the last session of congress, he fully demonstrated his capacity for leadership. His skill in handling administration measures in the house of representatives won him national recognition.

By giving Mr. Rayburn the united support that is necessary to place him in the speakership, the Texas delegation will give the country a remarkably able speaker of the house. will give the country a remarkably able speaker of the house. —Dallas Times-Herald.

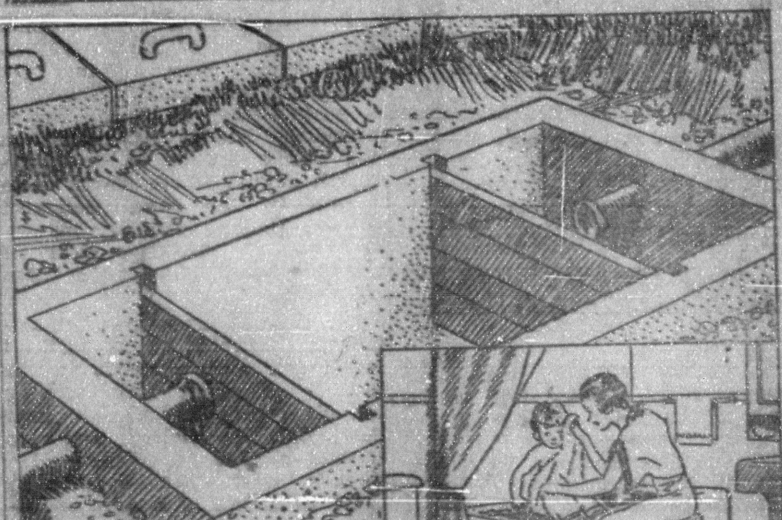
McKinney and Collin county citizens bid "bon voyage" to C. M. Adams, District Engineer for Malaria Control for Texas, with headquarters at Texarkana, who has been moved by the Federal Government to Santa Fe, New Mexico, where he will take charge of the Malaria Control program for that entire state. Mr. Adams was one of the most universally well-liked Federal officials who has ever worked in Collin county. Quiet-spoken, unostentatious and devoted to his work, Mr. Adams proved an inspiration, especially to our rural districts in the fight on mosquitoes, flies, malaria control, for the screening of rural homes, for the campaign in building sanitary pit toilets and for the safeguarding of water supplies in the farming sections. He also did much constructive work in McKinney, leading in the drive during the past summer to rid the city and vicinity of mosquitoes and thus do away with any chance for a malaria outbreak. We welcome, however H. E. Brevard, district engineer, at Harlingen, in the Rio Grande Valley, who assumes the malaria control position. He is well qualified for the work.

The annual vacations of Americans, who take off from three days to a month to roam about and get away from the "daily grind," cost $5,000,000,000. The Texas Centennial in 1936 will attract a large part of this vacation money into the Lone Star State. Boost the Centennial, it will pay in the long run.

The corn and hog producers of the nation, especially in the Middle West and Southwest, have given the "New Deal" farm program a rousing vote of approval. In a recent election, held among all corn and hog farmers to determine whether or not they desired to continue the Corn-Hog Reduction program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the farmers voted nine and a half-to-one in favor of continuation. The Corn-Hog program was well planned and well carried out. It placed ready cash in the hands of the farmer when he needed it most, during the summer off-season. It raised the price of both corn and hogs and placed many producers on a paying basis again. It is, therefore, cheering to note that Collin farmers voted 237 to 15 in favor of continuation of the program. Of the Roosevelt administration, it must be said that no fairer method could be used than an election or poll among the cooperating farmers to determine the future of the Corn-Hog program. Mack Morgan of McKinney, Route 5, and Bailey Whisenant of Allen are president and secretary, respectively, of the Collin-Rockwall Corn-Hog Association.

Another thing: Many, who should have known already, are finding that alcohol and autos do not mix. The accidents, thus caused, would be deplorable enough if the victims were only those given over to drinking. However, the problem presents a much more serious aspect when one considers the highways are lined with thousands of sober motorists, who are too frequently the innocent victims of drunken drivers.

The Farm Gets Running Water



A concrete septic tank, easily built and thoroughly reliable, brings the farm that great convenience of city life—the comfort of running water. It also offers a better guarantee of continued health of the family.

By W. G. KAISER
Agricultural Engineer

Modern water systems and concrete septic tanks have brought to the farm one of the greatest conveniences of city life—running water. When water and a sanitary sewage system are so easy to provide, there is no reason why any country home should do without them.

A septic tank should have 50 gallons capacity for each person served. A tank to take care of the average family measures 6 feet long by 3 feet wide by 5 feet deep, inside dimensions. Choose a site at least 50 feet away from any drinking water supply. If soil is firm it will serve as the outer form for the concrete tank. Build an inner form with outside dimensions equal to the above size and brace it strongly. Concrete walls of the tank should be 4 inches thick.

In building the inner form, nail four 1-inch beveled cleats to the outside to make grooves for baffle boards. Don't nail the top end boards. Cut holes in them to fit a 4-inch sewer pipe for the inlet and outlet, allowing a 2-inch drop across the tank for the sewage to flow.

Mix 5 gallons of water per sack of cement with wet sand and pebbles in ratio of two parts sand to three of pebbles. Avoid mixes that are too wet or too dry by varying quantities of sand and pebbles.

Place the floor of the tank first, leveling it off, and then build up the sides by placing concrete in 8-inch layers all around. Spade each layer thoroughly.

Place inlet and outlet pipes in position as concrete is brought to the proper level. The top is usually made of several reinforced concrete slabs, 3 inches thick, made in separate forms and placed on the tank later.

Remove forms after two days, but keep concrete moist for a week or ten days before using. Thirty feet of pipe per person if the soil is porous, or 100 feet per person if the soil is dense, completes the drainage system. Place the tile not more than 12 to 18 inches below the ground surface, with a fall of ¼ inch in 10 feet.

INSURANCE OF DEPOSITS HELPS TEXAS BANKS

Texas banks increased their deposits more than $90,000,000, in the past six months, according to figures recently released by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation with headquarters at Washington. This included 820 licensed banks in the state or 88 per cent of the licensed banking institutions.

"I believe the confidence engendered by deposit insurance has been an important factor in promoting this substantial increase in bank deposits," says Chairman Leo T. Crowley of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporatiin.

Among other significant figures shown in the reports of condition of the insured commercial banks of Texas were loans and investments totaling $696,388,999 and cash and due from banks, including balances with the Federal Reserve bank of the district amounting to $385,731,000.

Banking houses, furniture and fixtures of the State were shown to be valued at $37,691,000.

Total deposits in these banks as of June 30, 1934, were $939,-792,000 as compared with $849,-709,000 on Dec. 30, last year. The total of capital stock and other items of capital account in the banks was shown to be $154,-540,000.

Almost 8,500 employes, including officers, directors and persons employed on a part-time basis, are engaged in the banking business in Texas, it was revealed in the report, from which the F. D. I. C. built up this abstract on Texas banks. It was compiled on the basis of reports received by the Federal Reserve Board, the office of the Comptroller of the Currency and the F. D. I. C.

MRS. STRONG AND DAUGHTER, NANCY

"Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin brought relief at once," says Mrs. A. G. Strong of 34-47 80th St., Jackson Heights, N.Y.

If anyone in your family is occasionally sluggish or constipated; especially any child, you should know this medical truth:

You cannot get safe relief with any medicine if you cannot regulate the dose. And to regulate dosage, you should have a liquid laxative. With a liquid laxative, you can gradually reduce the dose. And that is the secret of safe relief from a sluggish, constipated condition.

Why Doctors Use Liquid Laxatives

A liquid laxative can be measured. Its action can be thus controlled. If properly made, of natural laxative elements like senna and cascara, it forms no habit—even in the youngest child. And such a laxative will help the bowels to help themselves, not make matters worse.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative containing herbs, active senna, and cascara, and is the one widely used. You can always obtain it at any drugstore. Why not make the "liquid test" which has attracted so much attention of late? It helps nearly everyone who tries it. It may make you feel better than you have in a long time.

If you will risk sixty cents to discover the natural, comfortable action of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, we believe bowel worries will be over for your household.

PRETTY LITTLE 6 YEAR OLD GIRL IS AUTHORESS

Those who received the November issue of "Child Life," no doubt have read with interest the striking little poem, "My Daddy" by May Ruth Nelson, 6 years old. The young authoress is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd S. Nelson of Dallas and a granddaughter of Mrs. H. A. Finch Sr. and the late Senator Finch, of this city.

The editor of the outstanding children's magazine selected it out of a large number of literary compositions sent from various sections of the United States and Canada. The child's mother was the former Miss Ruth Finch of McKinney, the author of a number of published poems. The poem follows:

GUESS WHO?

There's something I like better than candy
Better than chewing gum too,
Better than my rag doll Mirandy
And my roller skates all shiny and new.
Better than a tricycle with bright
red handles,
Better than my favorite laddie,
Better than my new white sandals,
Guess who? my dear old daddy.

CROWDS MEANT EXCITEMENT IN FORMER YEARS

Steve Shipman, well known and respected citizen of the Climax community, while on a recent visit to Farmersville, East Collin city where he formerly lived, recounted several interesting tales from the past according to The Times, surrounding the history of Farmersville and that section.

For some time, Mr. Shipman was constable of the Farmersville precinct during salloon days —and he was a peace officer when the late Carrie Nation (of saloon smashing fame) paid the town a visit. After making a prohibition speech on the square, Carrie invaded a local saloon and used her hatchet on the bar and back mirror while a noisy, cheering crowd looked on.

"Those were exciting times during a prohibition campaign," stated Mr. Shipman, "and I remember when a prominent Greenville man came over and made a speech and was later mobbed and badly beaten as he returned to Greenville on the Katy train by some men who did not like his remarks. Peace officers had lots to do in those days—and there was usually plenty of excitement every time we had a big crowd in town."

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Bearden of Dallas spent the week-end with McKinney relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gunstream of Frisco recently entertained with a dinner honoring his brother, O. D. Gunstream, and wife, of Upland, California, who are guests in the Gunstream home.

NOW IS PROPER TIME TO TERRACE FARM LANDS

"This is the proper time of year to terrace farms," according to County Farm Agent Jack McCullough. "Farm owners should take advantage of the dry weather and build terraces to prevent erosion and conserve moisture. Those farm owners who are fortunate enough to live within the limits of the working crew, located at Farmersville, should see V. Miller, superintendent of the Soil Erosion camp located there for aid."

The farm agent points out that any farm well terraced is a contribution to the future generation as well as the present. It is unpardonable to allow this good black land to wash away. The government has finally realized this and have taken steps to correct erosion. No greater nor more valuable work could be done, and it should be encouraged to the limit.

'Eighty-five per cent of the cultivated land in Collin county could be benefited by proper terracing," says Agent McCullough. "We have just barely scratched the surface of terracing Collin county farms. We have around 340,000 acres which could be helped by proper terracing, but of this number we have not more than 35,000 to 50,000 acres terraced. If it has taken from the beginning of time up to 1934 to terrace this small amount, we should now turn on the steam and terrace these fine Collin county farms in the next 10 years. Erosion and lack of conservation of moisture is costing the county literally hundreds of thousands of dollars each year. For the past five or six years the county agent's office has put forth every effort possible to speed this work up, and have surveyed terrace lines on many thousand acres, but it will take the efforts of all farmers to get the work done in a reasonable length of time.

A good rain is needed. Wheat and oats are dying in some counties for lack of moisture.

George N. Mallone, who lives about two miles west of Celina, suffered a stroke of paralysis. His condition, although slightly improved, is still serious.

E. H. Campbell, connected with the Dallas post office, spent the week-end visiting with Culleoka friends and relatives and attending the county singing convention.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Coffey of Frisco had as their guests, Rev. and Mrs. G. B. Airhart of McKinney and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hemphill from near Mineral Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Q. Forte, Miss Annie Ruth Furr, Robert Forte, W. L. Dums, Tom Chambliss and Clarence Forte all attended the McKinney-Sherman football game in Sherman Friday night.

CITIES SHOULD ADVERTISE MERITS IN NEWSPAPERS

According to City Manager George D. Fairtrace of Fort Worth, city government not only need good publicity men but interest-arousing advertising. Manager Fairtrace returned Friday from St. Louis, where he advocated use of press agents for cities over 100,000 in population before the International Association of City Managers.

He advocated for a city the size of Fort Worth a $20,000 budget item for newspaper advertising copy, which should be prepared as for a large corporation.

"The whole story of city government should be told in a manner that will interest the citizens," he declared. "It's the people's business. I do not believe in holding back news and do not restrict my department heads from giving news as long as it is the truth."

CHILDREN HONOR MRS. J. M. FURR ON BIRTHDAY

Sunday, October 21, the children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Furr met at their home in the Rhea Mills community with well-filled baskets for a happy family reunion. The occasion was in honor of Mrs. Furr's 73rd birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Furr are the parents of twelve childen—eight sons and four daughters. They have thirty grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. All were present except six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Fifty-five of these relatives and two friends, Mr. Hayes of Prosper and Mrs. Bill Treece, of Wylie, enjoyed the day. At noon a sumptuous dinner was spread on a long table under the cedar trees on the lawn of the Furr home. This has been an annual custom in this family, of having a happy reunion on the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Furr, which each year, proves a most enjoyable event.

Joe Akin, 22, son of Mrs. Bird Akin of Rhea Mills, is in the McKinney City hospital recovering from an appendicitis operation.

Simon H. Taylor of Melissa ransacted business in McKinney Monday. He states that wheat is needing rain pretty badly. Many people are still hauling water in that section as well as in other parts of the county.

LATE OCTOBER PEACHES GROWN IN M'KINNEY

Jim P. Thomas of this city has an October peach tree that is now well fruited with a choice quality of large pink-checked peaches of excellent flavor and palatable taste. This is one of the latest bearing peach trees that this editor knows of.

Mr. Thomas is the veteran Dispatching Clerk of the McKinney Post Office, whose efficiency and knowledge of the Postal Service is equaled by few and not excelled by but few in any size office.

He and Mrs. Thomas have a well improved home, 718 South Parker street, with a pretty front yard and spacious rear premises—including garden and some prolific fruit trees. Mr. Thomas and wife take great pride in keeping their home in good repair and neatly care for it and surroundings.

SOME FARMERS OF EAST COLLIN REPORT LATE CROP

J. H. Lee, farmer of the Mesquite community, on Wednesday of last week, displayed in Farmersville a number of cotton stalks with large unopened cotton bolls.

He stated he had thirty-five acres of cotton thus loaded which promised to produce a third of a bale of this new crop. The cotton will be open in another two weeks. Finis Kinnamon of the Arnold community, made the statement that there were several cotton fields in his section thus loaded with unopened bolls —and that it was his opinion that over a third of the cotton of East Collin would produce another crop of a third of a bale to the acre of cotton developed after the September rains.

Our good friend, F. H. Adams, Route 1, Weston, who has lived for seven years on the old Claud Tatum home place of 242 acres, about ten miles northwest from McKinney, tells us that he is going to move to West Texas around the first of the year. While in the city, Mr. Adams called in and paid his subscription to the Weekly Democrat-Gazette. He is one of the county's best tenant farmers and his moving away will be a distinct loss to the county. Mr. Adams' many friends and neighbors wish for him, and his excellent family health, happiness and prosperity when he locates in his new home in the west.

YOUNG M'KINNEY VOCALIST MAY STUDY IN PARIS

Miss Janet Miller, accomplished daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bryce Miller in this city, is studying voice with Madame Pallaria of Dallas, who recently returned from Paris to teach music in the Texas metropolis. Madame Pallaria is an able instructor in voice, having studied in Chicago, New York and Paris and next year will make her debut in May at the Opera Comique in Paris and in all probability will be rewarded with a permanent contract. This will be a signal honor for Madame Pallaria since only two other Americans have had this distinction—Mary Garden and Miss Stiles. Madame Pallaria took music under Monsieur LaPierre of Paris.

Madame Pallaria is anxious for Miss Miller to accompany her back to France when she returns there next year. She is highly complimentary of the young McKinney vocalist and likes her voice very much, declaring it is a combination of lyric and dramatic soprano, a very unusual combination. Miss Miller's many friends will be pleased to learn of her success thus far, in her chosen vocation. She is one of the city's most talented vocalists.

Sunday marks the closing date of the seventh consecutive year of Dr. E. O. Whitwell, as pastor at the Central Presbyterian church in this city. Dr. Whitwell will begin his eighth year as pastor at that church on November 1. He has had a successful pastorate since coming to McKinney. He and his congregation are making great progress. In fact more than half of the present membership of the Central Presbyterian church has been received in the seven years of Dr. Whitwell's ministry there. The church is planning for another successful year.

Miss Gertrude Lindley of this city and Claud Curtsinger of Frisco drove up to Sherman Friday night to see the football game.

25 YEARS AGO IN M'KINNEY

FROM THE FILES OF THE DAILY COURIER-GAZETTE

(October 26, 1909.)

W. G. Mulkey of Quanah, Texas, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Marvin Reinhardt and husband, in McKinney today.

Miss May Ladd, teacher of mathematics in McKinney High school, spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in Fort Worth.

John R. Brown is building a nice new rent house on East Greenville street. Contractors J. R. Padgitt and son, Marshall, are building it.

Cottonseed are selling for $26.00 per ton today. Lint cotton is bringing 13.75 cents per pound, corn is bringing to the farmers 55 to 60 cents per bushel, bran is selling at $1.50 per hundred.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Morgan and daughter, Miss Minnie, and Misses Lizzie White and Lillian Douglass, all of near Culleoka, came to McKinney this morning to board the interurban to attend the Dallas State fair.

Interesting exercises marked the presentation of a handsome new piano to the McKinney High school by the Mother's club. Miss Ony Dowler presided at the new instrument, which Mrs. T. W. Wiley, president of the club, formerly presented to the school. She was responded to by Mrs. W. T. Beverly. City School Superintendent J. H. Hill, Mrs. William Burnell and Prof. F. G. Jones, principal of the high school, also made talks. Rev. S. L. Rieves, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, dismissed the meeting with prayer.

New Lamp Is Described By H. S. Ware of T. P. & L.

Recent developments in home lighting have been announced which have resulted in the manufacture of a new type portable lamp which has for its purpose the provision of proper lighting as a means of eyesight conservation. This new portable lamp is known as the study or reading lamp.

The new study lamp has formed a basis for the Nation Better Light-Better Sight program, which is being sponsored by the Better Light-Better Sight bureau. Working in cooperation with this program are architects, retail merchants, electrical contractors, electrical manufacturers, electric light companies and paint and wall paper trades. Each is doing its part toward promoting the Better Light-Better Sight story in their fields.

The Better Sight program is based on findings of the new science of seeing. Research has shown that eyes were designed originally for seeing under daylight conditions, while modern eyes are used mostly for close and difficult visual tasks under artifical light. The greater difficulty of modern visual tasks and the poorer seeing conditions which exist in the average home, has resulted in much defective vision. One grade school child out of every five has defective vision and 60 per cent of all adults have faulty eyesight, statistics show. The remedy for this condition, as outlined in the Better Light-Better Sight program is the correction of existing eye defects and the proper care of eyes, combined with the elimination of eyestrain caused by inadequate lighting.

"The new study lamp, which is being produced by the leading lamp manufacturers, has been designed to meet the requirements of close seeing," H. S. Ware, district manager of the Texas Power & Light company said. This lamp is equipped with an opalescent bowl which allows light to filter downward for reading or other close visual tasks and at the same time reflects light up against the ceiling of the room to give general illumination. It is equipped with a shade with white enamel interior to provide a good reflecting surface. The height of the lamp is 19½ inches from the bottom of the shade to the base. This height was determined by the Illuminating Engineering society as correct for most efficient lighting effect.

"So popular has the study lamp proved that the lamp manufacturers have developed a semi-indirect floor lamp quite similar in construction to the study lamp and which also meets the specifications for proper lighting set forth by the Illuminating Engineering soicety."

J. P. Holley and Miss Irene Baugh, a young couple, came up from Dallas Wednesday night and were united in marriage about 10:00 o'clock at the First Methodist church parsonage by the pastor, Dr. Minor Bounds. The young couple were accompanied by another young couple from Dallas to which city they immediately returned after the ceremony had been pronounced. As our readers know this was the second wedding that Dr. Bounds officiated at last evening and night, the first one being the Young-Caldwell church ceremony at 8:00 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. William Scroggins of Rhea Mills have as their guest, their daughter, Mrs. C. C. Scroggins, of Hale Center.

L. C. Yarbrough, trustee of the Cottonwood school district and substantial farmer of that section, was in McKinney on business Friday.

ROTARIANS HONOR CCC COMMANDER AND ASSISTANTS

Citizens Conservation Corps activities were clearly and interestingly set forth to local Rotary club members and visitors at Friday's noonday luncheon, at which Tom E. Craig and Ham Moore were responsible for the program with Rotarian Craig acting chairman. He asked H. B. Bickers, administrator of the County Relief Board to present the speakers.

He first presented First Lieutenant H. R. Lyons, second commanding officer of the camp, located just west of Farmersville about sixteen miles east of McKinney, who traced the life, environments and activities of the young men serving in the Corps who range in age from eighteen to twenty-five years old. He called attention to the popularity of this phase of the "New Deal," which he declared even the leading Republican papers of the country are endorsing. For instance, the Philadelphia Inquirer-Public Ledger, a great Eastern Republican paper, says, "President Roosevelt is quoted as favoring the continuance of the work of the CCC indefinitely. In so doing, he will be backed by a large body of public opinion. It has had the effect of taking a large number of unemployed young men off the streets and putting them to work in the open." Another Eastern Republican paper editorially says, "The CCC has come to be regarded as among the most beneficient of emergency relief undertakings and the best fitted to be adapted to continuing needs. Experience in its management should point the way to its establishment, on a modified scale, when the present emergency has passed as a part of the regular order."

The Farmersville camp grounds are beautifully laid out in streets and sidewalks. The young men are subject to discipline that gives them work eight hours of the day and five days out of the week. They have bathhouses, and are provided with comfortable clothing for the season and wholesome food prepared in the very best manner and served to them. They have a permanent library and a circulating library, comfortable barracks and a post exchange where they can buy wanted articles at practically cost.

Lieutenants Lyons stated that the C. C. C. is not a military organization, but is strictly civilian with army officers in command.

Immeasurable benefits have been derived already in the eighteen months existence of this organization in the way of forest work, building roads through national forests, soil conservation and national park improvement and beautification.

Each of the barracks is furnished with a radio, a part of which are bought by the boys themselves.

Prof. T. G. Wray, the educational advisor of the Farmersville camp stated that school advantages were offered the men and a little more than fifty per cent of them are taking advantage of it. Three teachers are provided to assist him in their instruction.

Captain John W. McCuen, commanding officer, also spoke a few words. He served in the World war with Texas troops and said that he was glad to be in Texas and to assist in the soil conservation work such as is being carried on by his company in various parts of Collin county. He stated that four-fifths of the money paid to the boys is given to their families. In other words, the boys are paid $30 per month, but $25 of it is sent to their families.

Mr. Bickers explained that the boys he sent to these camps are taken from families on the relief roll. Immediately after the boy enters the camp, his family is taken off the relief roll. Therefore, the expense of the C. C. C. is largely retrieved by the saving of taxes on the relief roll expense. It is like taking money from one pocket and shifting it to the other pocket.

President Jack P. McCullough was much pleased with the program as were all the Rotarians and their visitors. The club accepted an invitation to take luncheon at camp Friday, Nov. 2.

A new Rotarian was introduced in the person of Prof. Lyman D. Robinson, principal of the McKinney High school. He was presented by Past President H. H. Neilson and the new member responded in a few remarks of appreciation that stamped him as choice Rotary material.

Visitors present were: Capt. McCuen and Prof. Wray, guests of H. B. Bickers; Lieutenant Lyons, and Editor Pat Mayse of Paris, guests of Walter B. Wilson.

When Editor Mayse was presented he received the heartiest greeting from his many old McKinney home friends. He formerly lived here for sixteen years. He married here and his two lovely young daughters were born here. He has been a Rotarian for ten years, during which time he has kept a perfect attendance record.

Mrs. A. S. Howard served as chairman of the group of Missionary ladies of the First Methodist church that prepared and served the excellent dinner.

Rotarian Ham Moore led the club in singing several lively Rotary songs, with Mrs. Gibson Caldwell at the piano.

Member Prominent Collin Family

A native of Coffey county, Tennessee, where she was born near Manchester, July 28, 1863, Martha Elizabeth Shrader spent the first nine years of her life in that state. She was the daughter of G. H. and Mary I (Gibbs) Shrader, who moved their family to Texas and settled in Collin county in 1872. The family first settled at Parker, about fifteen miles southeast of McKinney where they resided for two years. Then, they settled at Old Lebanon where they lived three years. Her father then bought what is still known as the Old Shrader farm, one mile north of where Frisco was since located and situated in the "flats" of West Collin where she grew to young womanhood. She attended school to Miss Marinda Bass, sister of the late J. D. Bass of McKinney, at the old Bass schoolhouse. She then attended William Allen's academy at Old Bethel and then attended Prof. I. A. Looney's private school here at McKinney, for several years. She was a woman of above the average education and culture.

Wife of Former County Official.

On December 28, 1882, she became the bride of Joe B. Rogers, a young business man of McKinney where they began housekeeping and lived for a number of years. Her husband was later elected County Treasurer of Collin county in which office he served for four years. The family had been living in Dallas for the last fifteen or twenty years. She was the mother of three children, who, with her heartbroken husband, survive are: Ernest Rogers of Fort Worth, Homer Rogers of Dallas and Miss Pauline Rogers, their only daughter, who still lives in the home with her parents and devotedly cared for them. She is also survived by a step-son, Dr. Charley Rogers of Oklahoma, whom she loved as her own child.

A Prominent Family.

Her parents were a fine old pioneer West Collin family, who reared their large family of children, consisting of five daughters and seven sons to manhood and womanhood in a devout Christian home. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Dr. W. R. Mathers of McKinney, and by four brothers, as follows: Rev. H. P. Shrader, a superannuate Methodist preacher, Corsicana, Texas; former County Tax Assessor of Collin county Fount P. Shrader of Frisco; former County Tax Assessor J. K. P. Shrader, now of 3700 Cedar Springs, Dallas; and Postmaster D. B. (Booker) Shrader of Frisco.

Her deceased sisters were the late Mrs. Lake Tarpley of Rock Hill; the late Mrs. Jennie Early, who died about six weeks ago at Berryville, Arkansas, and whose remains were shipped back to this county for burial in the old Bethel cemetery with her parents. Her other sister was the late Mrs. Florence Howell, who died at Childress about twelve years ago.

Her oldest brother was the late John V. Shrader, who died twelve or fourteen years ago.

Another brother was the late William (Bill) Shrader, a druggist for many years at Prosper, in West Collin, who died there about two years ago.

Her other deceased brother was G. W. (Buck) Shrader, who died nine or ten years ago at his home at Roswell, New Mexico.

Mrs. Rogers was a lifelong member of the Methodist church possessed with a sweet, lovable personality, who spread sunshine and happiness in her home and among every circle in which she moved. The devotion of her self and husband was truly beautiful throughout their fifty-three year married life. She was an ideal mother, who dedicated her children to the church in their infancy and led them up to be loyal Christians when they reached maturity. Her death causes sorrow to the hearts of a mulitude of sympathizing friends, acquaintances and relatives in McKinney and almost every other part of Collin county.

Mrs. Sid Williams, who has been in very ill health for four years, is still confined to her home, 1303 Florence street, being able to be up only a part of the time. Her husband was Justice of the Peace, Precinct No. 1, for four years, from 1925 to 1929.

B. C. Neal, a barber in the I. M. Counts shop, who recently submitted to an operation in the McKinney City hospital, is resting as well as could be expected.

Raymond Wilson, a mighty good citizen and hustling farmer of near Prosper, was greeting his friends on McKinney streets Friday.

FIRST REPORT CARDS OF YEAR ISSUED PUPILS

More than 2,000 students in the McKinney Public schools have been issued report cards, signifying the close of the first six weeks of the term.

According to Prof. Jack R. Ryan city superintendent of schools, the school children have much for which to be joyful. From all reports, Prof. Ryan says, the schools have made their best beginning in years, taken as a whole. All schools reported splendid first month reports. Attendance, good attitude and much steady, excellent work was reported from all grades and classes.

The McKinney City schools have long been noted for their excellent work, and for capable faculty members and industrious, ambitious students. They have made a fine start on what should be one of their most successful years in history.

Phillips, superintendent of adult department, with Miss Hallie Neathery as councilor; Miss Hallie Evans, superintendent of young people's department, with Miss Bettie Carmack as councilor.
